SunWind Power Joins other Green Businesses in Louisville to Support The Clean Energy and Security Act on Clean Energy Jobs Day

Clean Energy Jobs Day held on May 29th, involved organized events throughout 100 cities in the U.S., including Louisville. The focus of this day was to convey a unified message to support the American Clean Energy and Security Act (ACESA) of 2009 and to urge Congress to strengthen it. This event was held at FischerSIPS plant in Louisville, KY where small green businesses around town gathered to speak up about the importance of the green jobs component of the ACESA. SunWind Power Systems representative, Jeremy Coxon, was one of the speakers at the event. Coxon stressed the importance of the bill to help reduce dependence on foreign oil and dirty coal as well as its ability to help generate local jobs. Coxon said that "this is a fight not only for the health of the environment that will sustain our children but also for the wealth of our country." His comments drew applause from the audience.
